Lydia Bley named Vice President and General Manager BTG Instruments

BTG are pleased to announce that effective March 1st Ms Lydia Bley will assume the role of Vice President & General Manager – BTG Instruments.

Ms Bley started her distinguished career in 1988 after graduating from Munich University of Applied Science with a degree in physical chemistry. After finishing her diploma thesis at the PTS she joined Müttek GmbH as product manager and developed the global market segment wet end chemistry with the Particle Charge Detector PCD-02 first. She became shareholder and held several positions of increasing responsibility reaching General Manager in 2001, the year Müttek was acquired by BTG. From 2003 - 2006 Ms Bley operated her own consulting business and then rejoined BTG Instruments in 2007 as Product Management Director – Analyzers. In 2008 she was named Director – Product management and Innovation, assuming additional responsibility for the complete portfolio and all technology & business development activities.
